Ray Riddick

The Lowell High School Class of 1976 mourns the death of our loved and respected head football coach, Raymond E. Riddick.

Mr. Riddick, a Lowell native, began his football career at Lowell High School, where he was team captain and all state end in 1934.

After high school, he was a letterman at Fordham University for three years. As a senior at Fordham, he was an All East selection and played on the first All Star team which defeated the New York Giants in 1940.

The Green Bay Packers signed Mr. Riddick fresh out of Fordham, and, in his second year, he was named to the All Pro second team.

His pro football career, which was interrupted by three years in the Navy, ended in 1946, when he became assistant football coach at Lowell High.

For 29 years, Mr. Riddick guided Lowell High football teams to successful seasons. His record of 180 wins, 73 losses, and 14 ties, 10 undefeated seasons and 4 trips to post season bowl games, established him among the ranks of the top high school coaches in the nation.

The recipient of numerous civic awards, Mr. Riddick was inducted into the Fordham University Hall of Fame on May 16, 1975.

Our class shares the grief of his family and friends. We have all lost a great and good man. We have all been diminished by his death.

Beatrice Johnston

Beatrice Johnston was active for many years in the Y.W.C.A. and Girls' Club educational and recreational programs before coming to Lowell High School thirteen years ago. She majored in physical education at Posse-Nissen College and has done graduate work at Syracuse University. As a student at Lowell High, she was a Girl Officer, and has remained active in their alumnae association, a background that ideally suited her for her appointment four years ago as Director of Girl Officers. She views her tenure in that position as a transitional period for the girls that is still ongoing. Mrs. Johnston hopes that, in the future, Girl Officers will have a more clearly defined leadership role within the school.

In retirement, Mrs. Johnston looks forward to spending more time with her family, particularly her two grandchildren.

Our class joins the many cheerleaders, Girl Officers, and phys. ed. students to whom Mrs. Johnston has unselfishly devoted many hours, in wishing her a happy, healthy retirement.

Helen Lannon

Helen Lannon retired this year after a career in education that spans forty-six years. A recipient of the Carney Medal at Lowell High School, Miss Lannon was elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Boston University, where she majored in Latin. For the last eleven years, she has been a guidance counsellor for the Junior Class at Lowell High.

Miss Lannon attributes the recent decline in college board scores to the fact that so few students study Latin today, and she recommends a return to the more traditional curriculum as an answer to this problem.

While admitting that she has been too busy to even think about retirement, Miss Lannon plans to keep in touch with young people by doing volunteer work and, perhaps, some tutoring.

After the many years Helen Lannon has devoted to the education of the students of Lowell, our class's wish for her happy retirement reflects the gratitude of generations of students who wish her well. Lowell High will be the less for her departure.

Paul Demogenes

Paul Demogenes, who taught for many years in the Business Department of Lowell High School, died in the Autumn of 1975, after a long and distinguished career. A valedictorian both at Lowell High and Boston University, he served with the First Division during World War II, and continued in the Army Reserve, retiring with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Turning his tremendous drive to the educational field, he taught accounting with the same enthusiasm and dedication which had characterized his earlier career, often spending long, arduous hours after school helping his students to acquire needed skills.

As a teacher, Paul Demogenes will long be remembered for his enthusiasm and dedication, as well as his great personal courage when, even in the face of failing health, he persevered in the teaching profession and continued to impart his standards of excellence to his students.

Girl Officers

Under the leadership of Colonel Roberta Marcotte and Lieutenant Colonel Mary Ilg, the Girl Officers have demonstrated once again the fine points of marching, dancing, posture, voice, and Mass Drill. Mrs. Beatrice Johnston, faculty advisor of the organization, is justifiably proud of the girls who wear the smart navy blue uniforms with brass buttons and gold chevrons.

The seventy-two girls were selected by three out-of-town judges, from a field of many candidates, during a day of grueling competition. As chosen leaders, the officers teach gym exercises to underclassmen, represent the school at various civic activities, and help to develop future girl officers.

Cadet Officers

Since 1880, the Cadet Officers' Brigade has been influential in developing the leadership potential of outstanding Lowell High School Students. During their junior year, boys compete for ranks in both written and physical exams. The Generalcy, a grueling competition for promotions within the ranks, is conducted at the beginning of the senior year.

Under the guidance of faculty directors, Colonel John Beaulieu and Lieutenant Philip Dancause, Brigadier General Edward Grzyb and Colonel David Finnegan have led the brigade to the completion of another successful year.

The Military Ball

For the first time in the History of Lowell High School, the Cadet Officers and the Girl Officers Regiments combined their formal dances into one spectacular affair, the Military Ball.

March 19, 1976 marked the occasion of this precedent setting event, climaxing weeks of excitement and preparation for the officers and their dates.

The Lowell Memorial Auditorium, lavishly decorated for the affair in vibrant red and white, was alive with the gaiety and laughter of exuberant young dancers. As waves of music from Billy Note's orchestra floated through the air, couples, in a kaleidoscope of beautiful gowns and elegant tuxedos, whirled about the floor, capturing the thrilling moments of the evening in memories to be savored in the years to come.

As part of the Receiving Line, in which the couples are greeted by city and school department officials, Headmaster Peter Stamas welcomes Terry Deslauriers and her escort, Wayne Baranowski.

The Grand March Highlights Evening

To the delight of relatives and friends, who filled the balcony, the climax of the evening's festivities, the Grand March, quickly followed the receiving line. During this procession, the couples, led by Colonel Roberta Marcotte and Scott Melanson, Lt. Colonel Mary Ilg and Mike Gallagher, Brigadier General Edward Grzyb and Eleanor Richardson, and Colonel Dave Finnegan and Carol Kopec, exhibited admirable poise and breathtaking dignity, reflecting the significance of the occasion.

Cheerleaders

The Lowell High School Cheerleaders, smartly attired in crisp red and white, lead Raider fans in spirited cheers and perform a series of intricate routines with seemingly inexhaustible energy and undauntable enthusiasm.

Under the direction of Mrs. Beatrice Johnston, the girls inspire victory in the hearts of Raider athletes and contribute greatly to Lowell High's school spirit.

Our Hearts Were Young and Gay

On February 6, 1976, the Lowell High School Drama Department produced the hit comedy, Our Hearts Were Young and Gay. Under the direction of Michael Sokolowski, students involved in the production, performing before a delighted audience, demonstrated once again that Lowell High has a wealth of outstanding theatrical talent.

Junior Classical League Officers: Secretary, Connie Demers; Vice President, Marie Demers; President Jinny Janeiro; Treasurer, Jane Slattery.

Saturnalia

Each year the Junior Classical League, in conjunction with its sister organization at Lowell University, presents Saturnalia, an evening of dining, dancing, and entertainment in the classical tradition.

The main speaker at this year's event was Mr. Thomas Murphy, Senior Floormaster and former Latin teacher. Under the Guidance of club advisor, Mrs. Grace Scanlon, the evening was an immense success.

I may have a good job for you.

In fact, the Army has over 300 different jobs you could apply for and probably get.

If you qualify, we'll guarantee your choice of job training in fields like construction, computer programming, intelligence, electronics, communications, or many others.

We'll pay you a starting salary of $361.20 a month (before deductions). With a raise to $402.60 after 4 months.

We'll also give you a chance to travel. Or a head start on college through in-service educational opportunities. With the Army paying up to 75% of your tuition.

If you're interested, give me a call. You'll not only be doing a good job for yourself. You'll be doing a good job for your Country as well.
